Glimpse of State Level Webinar “Class Societies in Urban India” held on 19.2.21.

Concept Note of the State Level Webinar Titled “Class Societies in Urban India”:

Inequality as an idea and as a practice has been prevalent in all societies since ages. The gradual vogue of development and progress churns out various parameters of inequality; class being one of them. This paper seeks to explore few critical questions that impinge on the mind of many.

- a. The trajectory of birth and growth of classes in urban societies.
- b. The changing dimensions of class as an axis of stratification
- c. Interface of class and caste in Urban India
- d. Propelling the ideas of merit and achievement as the only source of social mobility.

With the aforementioned questions, a canvas is created that requires the 'residents of society' to fill in proportionate colours of reality and hope.

Profile of the Invited Speaker of the State Level Webinar Titled “Class Societies in Urban India”:

Dr. Aniksha Roy is senior Faculty in the Department of Sociology, The Bhawanipur Education Society College, University of Calcutta. She completed her doctorate degree in 2015. Her areas of interest include ‘political sociology’ and sociology of the marginals. She has presented papers at various national and international seminars. Her recent publication includes a co-edited volume titled Cultural Gastros published in 2019. She has been teaching Sociology since the past ten years. She will be speaking on the topic “Class Societies in Urban India.” Her paper will delve into the complexities of class as a defining feature of structured inequality, its epistemology and contexts of reference in Indian society.

Report on State Level Webinar

“CLASS SOCIETIES IN URBAN INDIA”

The Principal, BHKM, Dr. Subhash Biswas, in his inaugural lecture of the state level webinar threw light upon several pertinent issues with respect to the concept of class as a dimension of social stratification in India. He also stressed on the need to view classes in a larger purview for instance, by linking class with the crucial social axis of caste. He also pointed out how class as a social indicator has a felt presence in contemporary Indian society which needs to be sociologically re-assessed.

In her welcome address, the Convenor of the webinar Dr. Runa Das Chaudhuri noted how class as an axis of social stratification is a relevant area of study for students and academics in the discipline of sociology. More so since globalization is radically transforming how India's citizens perceive class. In fact India today is a nation in flux, bombarded with media images of middle-class consumers, navigating the currents of late capitalism and the surges of inequality which these produce. Dr. Das Chaudhuri expressed hope that the webinar's discussion would enlighten participants with the changing dimensions of class as a form of social stratification and also bring to the fore several allied aspects of class inequality, the interface of caste and class in modern India etc.

Next following a slight change in the schedule Dr. Das Chaudhuri in place of Dr. Minakshi Biswas introduced the speaker of the webinar Dr. Aniksha Roy.

The speaker Dr. Aniksha Roy commenced on her talk with a critical and nuanced argument of how vaguely ambiguous and fudgy the concept of class is. She also discussed on various allied concepts like class imaging, classes and sub-classes, idea of delusive prejudices and then critically discoursing on the three perspectives of classes. Dr. Roy also deliberated on the epistemology of middle classes in India, the three 'Is' initiator, indicator and integrationist. She ended her lecture by highlighting on the role of technology in the formation of hierarchized stratification of sub-classes in contemporary urban Indian society.

The question and answer session was conducted by Dr. Runa Das Chaudhuri which was followed by the formal vote of thanks proposed by Ms. Sumita Chatterjee, Convenor, Seminar Research Forum and Head, Department of Education, BHKM.
