Objective of the Programme: The Objectives of Communal Harmony address the six fateful areas of social co-existence in India, that will help us achieve lasting peace and harmony. As like:

1. ‘Interfaith Harmony – Initiatives that promote and nurture interfaith unity, harmony and the message of oneness. The emphasis is on enabling and nurturing dialogues between communities, regardless of their faith, through education, advocacy and community-wide events. Faith should function as a tool for peace, rather than division and marginalization. Through valuable secular inputs, initiatives to increase tolerance and goodwill between communities and faiths.
2. Equality for All – Enabling equality for all, irrespective of caste, creed, religion, language and gender. Such equality provides protection to individuals against discrimination and the right to be treated with respect and dignity in the society.
3. Sustainable Living – Activities inspiring harmony with nature to energise our immediate eco-systems. The initiatives envisage working closely with governments, businesses and local communities to facilitate sustainable living. The campaign will encapsulate a mode of living where we live within the innate carrying capacity of the planet.
4. Women Empowerment – Programs that engender empowerment and safety of women. The strategy is to educate and thus empower women to ensure they have a significant role in governance, public dialogue and decisions that will influence their families’ and society’s future.
5. Community Health – Propagating effective community awareness programs to improve sanitation and primary healthcare, thus creating a positive influence on personal and societal health and hygiene.
6. Education & Youth Development – An active proponent to spread education in the lower strata of society and to empower youth through education across the nation.’

Programme outcome: Through this programme we have been able to convey a message of unity among the students irrespective of caste and religion. Moreover, the students have developed a clear idea about the social value of women. Through our speakers we have been able to convey the message of how important unity can be to a nation. All this has created a sense of consideration among the students. They understood the need for communal harmony for a strong state.
